About the DFCB

Founded in 2004, the Digital Forensics Certification Board is a member-driven, non-profit, vendor-independent organization of the National Center for Forensic Science, sponsored in part through a grant from the National Institute of Justice. DFCB was founded to provide, among other things, an objective certification in digital forensics in order to promote trust and confidence in the digital forensics profession. The Board currently offers professional certification for digital evidence examiners called the Digital Forensics Certified Practitioner (DFCP). The DFCP designation is only available to digital evidence professionals with a strict minimum of five years of experience related to digital evidence or digital forensics. Those seeking the DFCP must demonstrate two or more years of practical experience in the last three years. Visit www.dfcb.org or call 407.823.6469.
